"EVERYSTUDENT" FOR MAY.

The May number of the "Everystudent," the High School publication, has just been issued from THE NEWS job rooms, and is fully in keeping with previous issues in typographical appearance, and in the quality of literary material in its pages.

The leading feature of the May number is a most cleverly conceived and artistically worded playlet, entitled "Everystudent," in three acts, the joint production of Misses Elizabeth Clarke, Eleanor Lytle, Edna Snapp, Fanny Heller, Thelma Squires, Raymond Connell, Robert Lavin and Fithian Rye, all High School students.

The playlet was written entirely out of school hours, and without outside help. It deals with the experiences of Everystudent in seeking an education. It is one of the cleverest skits we have read for many years, and reflects great credit upon those who produced it. The playlet is reproduced in its entirety in this issue of THE NEWS.

The contents of the May number from the first page are as follows: "Senior Play;" "The American Poet As Interpreter to Our Nation," by Alice W. Adair; Editorial, by the staff; Commencement Week; Honor Roll for Fourth Month; The Junior's Play, "Everystudent;" "An Act of Bravery Justly Rewarded," by Miss Edna Snapp.

This number is an exceedingly interesting one, and is in every way up to the high standard set by the previous issues.

CHIEF OF POLICE LINK ANNOUNCES FOR RE-ELECTION

TO THE VOTERS OF PARIS:

I desire to announce my candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Chief of Police of the City of Paris, Ky., subject to action of the primary election to be held on August 4, 1917.

In asking the Democrats of Paris for an endorsement of my past services as Chief of Police, by a re-election to that important position, I do so with the full confidence that I have discharged the duties of Chief of Police impartially and to the best of my ability.

Nearly four years ago I was elected as Chief of Police, and since that time I have worked unceasingly for the betterment of conditions in Paris. During my term of office numerous lawbreakers have been apprehended and a large number of housebreakers have been arrested and in most cases the stolen plunder recovered for the owners. The same is also true of the forgers who have attempted to work in Paris. Numerous forgeries have been perpetrated on the Paris merchants and in nearly every instance the culprits have been apprehended in this and adjacent States, returned to Paris and here convicted of their crimes.

I merely make brief mention of the above cases to refresh the memories of some of the voters as regards my efforts in serving the citizens of Paris to the best of my ability.

The experience gained during the past three and one-half years as Chief of Police has been of great value to me, in that it has thrown me in direct contact with the different police departments throughout Kentucky and in many adjoining States, the result being that I am in a much better position to get in touch with out-of-town officials in the apprehension of fugitives than at the beginning of my term of office.

I have so tried to conduct the office of Chief of Police that it would get the greatest results.

In many cases, by the exercise of discretion, results that have redounded in greater benefit to the community and to the offender, have been secured by not always taking the petty violator into custody, but by a firm discipline otherwise administered, the public is well served, and the careless offender shown the error of his way and directed into the paths of a law-abiding citizen, and the humiliation of notoriety saved to innocent parties.

I am a young man, being only thirty-four years of age, and I am sure that all will agree that the three and one-half years spent by me as your Chief of Police will be invaluable to me, and has rendered me capable of a better service during a second term of office, if the Democrats of Paris so decree. If I am favored with the nomination to which I aspire, I promise the good people of Paris a faithful and conscientious discharge of the duties of the office, impartially and to the best of my ability.

In extending sincere thanks to the Democrats of Paris for past favors and courtesies shown me, I desire to assure every resident of Paris that I will continue in the future, as in the past, always on the job, whether on or off duty, and will cheerfully respond to calls at any hour, day or night, as promptly as possible.

W. FRED LINK,
Chief of Police.

MORE IMPORTANT THAN INTEREST.

In the payment of a debt it is not the interest, but the principal, which gives the greatest trouble.

The Bourbon Building & Loan Association loans money at 6 per cent, and each monthly payment reduces the principal along with the interest.

Call at our office for full particulars regarding our new ones, which opens June 2.
